

BuildGirls.org is looking for Ambassadors who share our passion to form new chapters.

If you are in high school, BuildGirls is looking to partner with you! BG is searching for schools that could benefit from an program geared to helping the young women of your school gain self-confidence, leadership while they work to change an industry that lacks proper female representation.

Why Become an Ambassador

- Connect with girls across the world interested in infrastructure
- Hear from inspiring female leaders and industry experts
- Develop leadership skills by creating events at your school, impacting your school community, and interacting with your community
- Learn how to reach out to leaders in the infrastructure community and how to market events
- Gain access to internships, discovery weeks and networking events
- Opportunity to apply for a national position

Being an ambassador means leading your chapter and being the primary source of contact between your chapter and the rest of BuildGirls chapters. As an ambassador, you have the unique opportunity to join the front line of BuildGirls and interact directly with other ambassadors.

All chapters are encouraged to participate in general programming, spearhead their own initiatives, and assist BuildGirls.org in our goal of equality and representation in ACE fields through concrete action. Our chapters and their driven ambassadors lie at the heart of our success.
