

buildGirls.org honored as co-founder rings opening bell at NASDAQ.

NEW YORK NY, December 28, 2023 /PRNewswire/ -- buildGirls.org, a 501 (c) (3) non-profit with a mission to educate, engage and empower middle and high school females to explore future careers in infrastructure was honored by NASDAQ and rang the opening bell to initiate market trading. The event which included a livestream, MarketSite Tower in Times Square, and participating television networks such as CNBC, Fox Business News, Bloomberg TV and BNN; reached millions of viewers worldwide. Buildgirls was featured on the tower in Times Square which has over 42 million visitors per year, making it Americas most visited tourist site.

Buildgirls, co-founder and CEO, Kenzie Goldstein said "...we are honored to be hosting the bell ringing at NASDAQ. This event is raising awareness of buildgirls mission. We are working hard every day to make a difference in our community by creating opportunities that will bring equality to the world and improve the lives of young women for generations to come. As I said today if we dare to dream, we will build on the efforts of Malala, Michelle, Yara and so many others leaders in the movement toward a gender-equal world where every girl is born with limitless opportunities to thrive, both as individuals and within their communities."

The buildgirls team is truly appreciative of the recognition the organization received and hopes the event raises awareness across the globe to help achieve their mission.
